CAPTURE HORSE THIEVES

Three Chicago Men Taken in Raid on 12th Street for Thefts of Lake Co. Horses

The arrest in Chicago Tuesday of three men, Manuel Casino, Frances Todaro and Thomas Torres, by Detectives Connors and O'Malley, of Central Station, will, it is believed, result in the extinction of a gang of horse-thieves which has been pestering Lake and Cook county farming districts for some time past. The fact that four stolen horses were recovered in a barn on 12th street near the Illinois Central depot and that the three men went there at 11 o'clock to feed the animals, caused the officers to feel they had solved the mysterious horse stealing which has perplexed the North Shore for months.

The three men were taken to Highland Park Tuesday evening where Justice Frederick Denman held them in $1,000 bonds to the grand jury and they are in the Lake county jail. They pleaded innocent, saying they purchased the horses.

These horses were recovered in the barn owned by a man named Jack Mathews.

Two horses of Mrs. James Ginty of Highland Park.

One horse belonging to a Waukegan merchant named Haywood.

Two horses owned by a Chicago Heights man.

One horse, owner's name not yet determined.

The Highland Park theft occurred on September 1st and 2nd. The two Ginty horses were taken from the pasture in the night and the Haywood horse was taken in the same way. The Chicago Heights theft occurred on the 28th.

The tip to the Chicago detectives was given by Mathews, who grew suspicious of the men's actions after they had rented his barn in the alley on 12th street.

TO BUILD BOTTLING PLANT AT SALEM

The Borden Milk Company of Chicago is making preparations for the erection of a large bottling plant in the town of Salem and the deal has been closed for the purchase of five acres of land just west of the village and the building is to be put up at once. It is claimed that the plant will be one of the largest ever erected in Kenosha County.

The Borden company now has complete control of the milk in the neighborhood of Salem as the old Klondyke creamery which had been the sole competitor of the company closed up the first of the month. The new bottling plant will be ready for the reception of milk by early spring.

Why Chinese Cherish Pigtails.
The statement that the Chinaman has "always" cherished his pigtail needs modification, as a correspondent reminds us. It is not 300 years old yet as a Chinese institution. Indeed, the most remarkable thing about this honored coiffure is that it was originally a humiliation to the Chinese. The earlier Chinaman wore his hair according to taste and fancy, but usually bunched up into a top-knot. When the conquering Manchus overthrew the Ming dynasty early in the seventeenth century they ordered the Chinese to adopt their own fashion of shaved heads and pigtails. This is first mentioned at the capture of Liaoyang, about 1618. The Chinese resented the disgrace, and stone tablets in Japan record that many fled the country to escape it. But the astute Manchus emperor made the pigtail popular by decrees that only honorable men might wear it, and that criminals should lose it.

When They Go Out to Dine.
"Did you ever notice the difference between a man's dinner and a woman's?" asked the observer. "A man takes you out to dinner. He orders a steak or roast beef, spaghetti, potatoes in some style, sliced tomatoes and pie or pudding. A woman gets sweetbreads, artichokes, truffles, mushrooms or some other expensive delicacy, lettuce or apple salad and the fanciest kind of ice cream dessert. A man never thinks of having anything but good solid food, while a woman must have something different, and it usually takes the form of high-priced, non-nutritious dishes. If they are out of season, so much the better."

Museum Exhibits Machinery.
The Norwegian town of Slangerup proposes to give a permanent museum for exhibiting all machinery used in the fish canning and preserving industry from its beginning until the present.

Foreign Students in France.
From returns recently made to the French ministry of public instruction, it appears that there are over five thousand foreign students enrolled in the albums of the national universities. All told there are 41,044 students enrolled, so of one hundred students enrolled, seven are French and thirteen foreigners. Of the foreigners, 1,797 are women and 3,444 men. There are only 2,033 French women students; Russia sends 2,556 students; Bulgaria, 254; Roumania, 330; Turkey, 232; Germany, 314; Egypt, 267; England, 177; Austria-Hungary, 132; United States, 292. Nearly all the English contingent is studying letters. Most of the foreign students go to Paris.—London Globe.

Improved Coloring Materials.
The distinguished German chemist, Ostwald, has taken out a German patent for the improvement of drawing inks and water colors. He has found out that by the addition of small quantities (from 1 to 100 to 1 to 1,000) of volatile organic compounds of the all-phatic series, which are soluble in water, at least to a small extent, and contain not less than four atoms of carbon, inks and other water colors are rendered capable of readily marking such surfaces as parchment, ivory, waxed paper, etc. In the case of neutral liquids an alcohol, ester or other neutral substance is used, while in acid inks, free fatty acids, such as valeric or caproic acid, may be added.

True Secret of Living.
The secret of living is the discovery of the greatest good, the things that are really worth the seeking, the values that do not fade nor depreciate. The greatest good you can do any person or people is to train them to make this discrimination, to help them to choose for themselves amongst the many possible prizes the ones that are worthy.

A Beautifully Formed Hand.
The perfect hand is slender at the wrist and broadening proportionately as long fingers that taper to the tips. When the hand is laid flat the tip of the thumb should almost touch the very beginning of the first knuckle of the forefinger. A short thumb is an evidence of a lack of brain. It was Sir Isaac Newton who said: "Show me the imprint of a man's thumb and I will tell you the strength of his mind." The nails should be thin, oval and pink. To give them an extensively high polish is bad taste and to make them extremely pointed is to suggest that they are incapable hands. English women have large hands, but usually they are well shaped, white and soft, though firm in grasp. French women have small hands, well formed, but dark; but it is among the Spanish and Italian women that the most beautiful hands are found. In India the hands of the women are beautifully formed, exquisitely dimpled—indeed, have every attribute of beauty; but they correspond in color with the dark faces that belong to their owners.

A Rain-Trap.
In a time of distressing drought, says a writer in the Yorkshire Daily Post, a harassed amateur agriculturist stepped into a shop to buy a barometer. The shopman was giving a few stereotyped instructions about indications and pressures, when the purchaser impatiently interrupted him. "Yes, yes," said he, "that's all right, but what I want to know is, how do you set the thing when you want it to rain?"

Force of Habit.
There is a story of a telephone girl in a big office who went to a doctor with a complaint that her nerves were out of order. "I have got to such a pitch," said she, "that when I kneel down to say my prayers at night I begin with 'Are you there?'"

MRS. TRAYNOR OF WADSWORTH PASSES AWAY

Mrs. Frances Traynor, a resident of Lake county for over fifty years, died at her home in Wadsworth Wednesday afternoon at 3:30. Death was due to heart failure with which she had suffered for several years. She was born in Montreal, Canada, in 1836 and moved to this country when she was about six years of age. About fifty years ago the family moved to Lake county where she married Mr. Traynor.

Six children survive her, John S. of North Chicago, William of North Chicago, Mrs. D. Eggerty of Rosecrans, Mrs. Jeremiah Shea of Waukegan, Frances Traynor of Wadsworth and Mrs. James Gray of Pleasant Prairie. Her husband died about twenty-five years ago.

The funeral will be held at Wadsworth Friday at 9:30 and burial will be at Rosecrans.

INJURED IN RAILROAD ACCIDENT

Luigi Dentiello was struck and knocked down by a freight car at Rondout crossing of the St. Paul, three cars passing over him, his left hand being cut off, his left shoulder severely injured, and sustaining other severe contusions and injuries of the right hand. He was taken to Libertyville, where Dr. E. V. Smith attended, and was later taken to the railroad hospital in Chicago. He will not die.

Dentiello is a flagman at Rondout and is 40 years of age. He was flagging on one track and stepped backwards on to the other just as the switch crew was switching a freight train in its bidirection.

Our Colonial Trade.

The trade of the United States with its non-contiguous territories for the fiscal year just ended aggregated $190,000,000, according to statistics of the department of commerce and labor. The department contrasts this with the record of 1897, when this trade aggregated only $35,000,000.

Statistics show that for 11 months of the last fiscal year the shipments from the United States to Porto Rico, Hawaii, the Philippines, Guam, Midway, Tutuila and Alaska amounted to $75,000,000 and the shipments therefrom to the United States, $96,666,000. This trade, both exports and imports, was larger than that of the preceding year. The largest percentage of gain was in the Philippines, to which the recent tariff act extended the privilege of interchange of merchandise free of duty.

The Courage of Captain Plum

By JAMES OLIVER CURWOOD

SYNOPSIS.

Captain Nathaniel Plum of the sloop Typhoon, lands secretly on Beaver Island, Lake Michigan, stronghold of the Mormons. Obadiah Price, an eccentric old man and counselor of the Mormons, who has been spying on him, suddenly confronts him and tells him his expected. Plum insists he has got the wrong man. Price ignores his protestations and bargains for the ammunition on board the sloop. He binds Plum by a solemn oath to deliver a package to Franklin Pierce, president of the United States. He agrees to show Plum the Mormon town, St. James. Plum sees the frightened face of a young woman in the darkness near Price's cabin. She disappears, leaving an odor of lilacs. It develops that Plum's visit to Beaver Island is to demand settlement from the king, Strang, for the losing of his ship some time previously by men whom he suspected of being Mormons. Burke, his mate, has been left in charge of the sloop with orders to burn St. James if the captain does not return within a certain time. Price takes Nathaniel secretly in the darkness to the king's house, and through a window he sees Strang and his seven wives, among whom is the lady of the lilacs, who Price says is the seventh wife. Price's action leads Plum to believe that he is jealous of Strang. Plum calls at the king's office.

CHAPTER III—Continued.

Was there a tremble of fear in her voice? Even as he looked Nathaniel saw the flush deepen in her cheeks and her eyes light with nervous eagerness.

"I am sent by Obadiah Price," he hazarded.

A flash of relief shot into the woman's face.

"The king is at his office," she repeated. "His office is near the temple."

Nathaniel retired with another bow.

"By thunder, Strang, old boy, you've certainly got an eye for beauty!" he laughed as he hurried through the grove.

"And Obadiah Price must be somebody, after all!"

The Mormon temple was the largest structure in St. James, a huge square building of hewn logs, and Nathaniel did not need to make inquiry to find it. On one side was a two-story building with an outside stairway leading to the upper floor, and a painted sign announced that on this second floor was situated the office of James Jesso Strang, priest, king and prophet of the Mormons. It was still very early and the general merchandise store below was not open. Congratulating himself on this fact, and with the fingers of his right hand reaching ineffectively for his pistol butt, Captain Plum mounted the stair. When half way up he heard voices. As he reached the landing at the top he caught the quick swish of a skirt. Another step and he was in the open door. He was not soon enough to see the person who had just disappeared through an opposite door, but he knew that it was a woman. Directly in front of him as if she had been expecting his arrival was a young girl, and no sooner had he put a foot over the threshold than she hurried toward him, the most acute anxiety and fear written in her face.

"You are Captain Plum?" she asked breathlessly.

Nathaniel stopped in astonishment.

"Yes, I'm—"

"Then you must hurry—hurry!" cried the girl excitedly. "You have not a moment to lose! Go back to your ship before it is too late! She says they will kill you—"

"Who says so?" thundered Captain Plum. He sprang to the girl's side and caught her by the arm. "Who says that I will be killed? Tell me—who gave you this warning for me?"

"I—I tell you so!" stammered the young girl. "I—heard the king—they will kill you—"

Her lips trembled. Nathaniel saw that her eyes were already red from crying. "You will go?" she pleaded.

Nathaniel held taken her hand and now he held it tightly in his own. His head was thrown back, his eyes were upon the door across the room. When he looked again into the girl's face there was flashing joyous defiance in his eyes, and in his voice there was confession of the truth that had suddenly come to overwhelm whatever law of self-preservation he might have held unto himself.

"No, my dear, I am not going back to my ship," he spoke softly. "Not unless she who is in that room comes out and bids me go herself!"

CHAPTER IV.

The Whipping.

Scarcely had the words fallen from his lips when there sounded a slow, heavy step on the stair outside. The young girl snatched her hand free and caught Nathaniel by the wrist.

"It is the king!" she whispered excitedly. "It is the king! Quick—"

still have time! You must go—you must go—"

She strove to pull him across the room.

"There—through that door!" she urged.

The slowly ascending steps were half way up the stairs. Nathaniel hesitated. He knew that a moment before there had passed through that door one who carried with her the odor of lilacs and his heart leaped to its own conclusion who that person was. He had heard the rustle of the girl's skirt. He had seen the last fash of the door close as Strang's wife pulled it after her. And now he was implored to follow! He sprang forward as the heavy steps neared the landing. His hand was upon the latch—when he paused. Then he turned and bent his head close down to the girl.

"No, I won't do it, my dear," he whispered. "Just now it might make trouble for—her."

He lifted his eyes and saw a man looking at him from the doorway. He needed no further proof to assure him that this was Strang, the king of the Mormons, for the Beaver Island prophet was painted well in that region which knew the grip and terror of his power. He was a massive man, with the slow slumbering strength of a bear. He was not much under fifty; but his thick head, reddish and crinkling, his shaggy hair, and the full, ruddiness of his face, with its foundation of heavy jaw, gave him a more youthful appearance. There was in his eyes, set deep and so light that they shone like pale blue glass, the staring assurance that is frequently born of power. In his hand he carried a huge metal-knobbed stick.

In an instant Nathaniel had recovered himself. He advanced a step, bowing coolly.

"I am Captain Plum, of the sloop Typhoon," he said. "I called at your home a short time ago and was directed to your office. As a stranger on the island I did not know that you had an office or I would have come here first."

"Ah!"

The king drew his right foot back half a pace and bowed so low that Nathaniel saw only the crown of his hat. When he raised his head the aggressive stare had gone out of his eyes and a welcoming smile lighted up his face as he advanced with extended hand.

"I am glad to see you, Captain Plum."

His voice was deep and rich, filled with that wonderful vibratory power which seems to strike and attune the hidden chords of one's soul. The man's appearance had not prepossessed Nathaniel, but at the sound of his voice he recognized that which had made him the prophet of men. As the warm hand of the king clasped his own Captain Plum knew that he was in the presence of a master of human destinies, a man whose ponderous red-visaged body was simply the crude instrument through which spoke the marvelous spirit that had enslaved thousands to him, that had enthralled a state legislature and that had hypnotized a federal jury into giving him back his freedom when evidence smothered him in crime. He felt himself sinking in the presence of this man and struggled fiercely to regain himself. He withdrew his hand and straightened himself like a soldier.

"No, Captain Plum, I Was Not Aware of It."

"I have come to you with a grievance, Mr. Strang," he began. "A grievance which I feel sure you will do your best to right. Perhaps you are aware that some little time ago—about two weeks back—your people boarded my ship in force and robbed me of several thousand dollars' worth of merchandise."

Strang had drawn a step back. "Aware of it?" he exclaimed in a voice that shook the room. "Aware of it!" The red of his face turned purple and he clenched his free hand in sudden passion. "Aware of it!" He repeated the words, this time so gently that Nathaniel could scarcely hear them, and tapped his heavy stick upon the floor.

"No, Captain Plum, I was not aware of it. If I had been—" He shrugged his thick shoulders. The movement, and a sudden gleam of his teeth through his beard, were expressive enough for Nathaniel to understand.

Then the king smiled.

"Are you sure—are you quite sure, Captain Plum, that it was my people who attacked your ship? If so, of course you must have some proof?"

"We were very near to Beaver Island and many miles from the mainland," said Nathaniel. "It could only have been your people."

"Ah!"

Strang led the way to a table at the farther end of the room and motioned Nathaniel to a seat opposite him.

"We are a much persecuted people, Captain Plum, very much persecuted indeed." His wonderful voice trembled with a subdued pathos. "We have answered for many sins that have never been ours, Captain Plum, and among them are robbery, piracy, and even murder. The people along the coasts are deadly enemies to us—who would be their friends; they commit crimes in our name and we do not retaliate. It was not my people who waylaid your vessel. They were fishermen, probably, who came from the Michigan shore and awaited their opportunity off Beaver Island. But I shall investigate this; believe me, I shall investigate this fully, Captain Plum!"

Nathaniel felt something like a great choking fist about up into his throat. It was not a sensation of fear but of humiliation—the humiliation of defeat, the knowledge of his own weakness in the hands of this man who had so quickly and so surely blocked his claim. His quick brain saw the futility of argument. He possessed no absolute proof and he had thought that he needed none. Strang saw the flash of doubt in his face, the hesitancy in his answer; he divined the working of the other's brain and in his soft voice, purring with friendship, he followed up his triumph.

"I sympathize with you," he spoke gently, "and my sympathy and word shall help you. We do not welcome strangers among us, for strangers have usually proved themselves our enemies and have done us wrong. But to you I give the freedom of our kingdom. Search where you will, at what hours you will, and when you have found a single proof that your stolen property is among my people—when you have seen a face that you recognize as one of the robbers, return to me and I shall make restitution and punish the evil-doers."

So intensely he spoke, so filled with reason and truth were his words, that Nathaniel thrust out his hand in token of acceptance of the king's terms. And as Strang gripped that hand Captain Plum saw the young girl's face over the prophet's shoulder—a face, white as death in its terror, that told him all he had heard was a lie.

"And when you have done with my people," continued the king, "you will go among that other race, along the mainland, where men have thrown off the restraints of society to give loose rein to lust and avarice; where the Indian is brutified that his wife may be intoxicated by compulsion and prostituted by violence before his eyes; where the forest cabins and the streets of towns are filled with half-breeds; where there stalk wretches with withered and tearless eyes, who are in nowise troubled by recollection of robbery, rape and murder. And there you will find whom you are looking for!"

Strang had risen to his feet. His eyes blazed with the fire of smothered hatred and passion and his great voice rolled through his beard tremulous with excitement, but still deep and rich, like the booming of some melodious instrument. He flung aside his hat as he paced back and forth; his shaggy hair fell upon his shoulders; huge veins stood out upon his forehead—and Nathaniel sat mute as he watched this lion of a man whose great throat quivered with the power that might have stirred a nation—that might have made him president instead of king. He waited for the thunder of that throat and his nerves keyed themselves to meet its bursting passion. But when Strang spoke again it was in a voice as soft and as gentle as a woman's.

"Those are the men who have vilified us, Captain Plum; who have covered us with crimes that we have never committed; who have driven our people into groups that they may be free from degradation; who watch like vultures to despoil our women; who have left families and character behind them and who have sought the wilderness to escape the penalties of law and order. It is they who would destroy us. Go among my own people first, Captain Plum, and find your lost property if you can; and if you can not discover it where in seven years not one child has been born out of wedlock, seek among the Lamanites—and my sheriffs shall follow where you place the crime!"

He had stretched out his arms like one whose plea was of life and death; his face shone with earnestness; his low words throbbed as if his heart were borne upon them for the inspection of its truth and honor. He was Strang the tragedian, the orator, the conqueror of a legislature, a governor, a dozen juries—and of human souls. And as he stood silent for a moment in this attitude Nathaniel rose, to his feet, unservient, and believing as others had believed in the fitness of this man. But as his eyes traveled a dozen paces beyond, he saw the young girl gesturing to him in that same terror, and holding up for him to see a slip of paper upon which she had written. And when she had caught his eyes she crumpled the paper into a shapeless ball and tossed it just over the landing to the ground below the stair.

"I thank you for the privileges of the island which you have offered me," said Nathaniel, putting on his hat, "and I shall certainly take advantage of your kindness for a few hours, as I want very much to witness one of your ceremonies which I understand is to take place today. Then, if I have discovered nothing, I shall return to my ship."

PROPER TREATMENT FOR OVERHEATED WORK HORSE

It Is Important to Know That Exhaustion From Summer Heat May Be Prevented—Clean Stable, Feed and Air Essential.

By A. B. ALEXANDER, Wisconsin.

When during the hot weather the hard worked horse suddenly stops sweating, legs, weakens, pants and has hot dry skin and extremely reddened membranes of the eyes, nose and mouth he is suffering from heat exhaustion and by using the thermometer it would be found that his temperature is over 100 degrees.

Unless a horse in this condition is immediately rested, put in a cool, shady, breezy place and there cooled off he will be likely to fall and die of heat apoplexy or "sun stroke."

It therefore is well to know and look suffers fearfully from the direct rays of the sun. Also shade the polls of horses at work and in such a way that air can pass under the shading hat or other cover.

When a horse shows symptoms of heat exhaustion stop work, stand him under a tree where there is a breeze, shower his body with cold water from a sprinkling can, keep cold wet packs to the poll of his head and give him large, frequent doses of stimulants such as whiskey in strong cold coffee.

Do not bleed him or give him acetonite or other poisonous drugs. Repeat the dose of stimulant every half hour at first and every hour or two as he gains strength and the fever abates.

A good stimulant is prepared by mixing together one part of aromatic spirits of ammonia and two parts each of alcohol and sweet spirits of nitre. Of this give two ounces in a pint of water or cold coffee as one dose.

If he is bloated give four ounces of hypophosphite of soda dissolved in water and inject soapy cold water and glycerine into the rectum once an hour until relieved. In case of sun stroke call in the graduate veterinarian as soon as possible.

HINGED HURDLER FOR SWINE

Instead of chasing pigs and having them running in every direction, make a V-shaped hurdler as shown in the illustration, says Farm Press. The frame is light wood and the webbing is made by two thicknesses of close mesh wire fencing with water-proof building paper between. A stiff wooden brace runs each way through the center so the fencing may be stretched tight. It is light and so strong that it is almost indestructible. With one of these rigs you can build a narrow lane on one side of the pen and move it ahead as the hog moves. He sees the opening ahead and walks that way to get out. Hogs may be coaxed with a rig of this kind when it is impossible to drive them where you want them to go.

EXTINCTION OF EARLY EQUINES

Much Mystery Surrounds Disappearance of American Horse—Attributed by Some to Increasing Cold

Over three centuries ago, at the time of the Spanish conquest, there was not to be found in the new world, so it has been practically proved, a single animal that answered to the description of the horse. Horses, indeed, which the Spanish brought with them, were objects of first of great terror to the natives, who took them to be four-legged supernatural beings come purposely to aid the conquerors. Yet recent research by the Whitney mission has established beyond doubt that long before Columbus the Americas were overrun by horses from the mountains of Alaska to the plains of Patagonia, says Harper's Weekly.

In 1826 the chance discovery in New Jersey of an equine fossil of an unknown kind, led to more methodical investigation of America, with the result that prehistoric horse bones have been found in California and Oregon; between the Gulf of Mexico and the Carolinas; in Texas, Florida and the valleys of Mexico; in the basin of the Mississippi and on the western slopes of the Rocky mountains. Horses, too, must have been numerous in this country previous to the appearance of man, researches having brought to light their fossilized remains mixed up with pottery and the stone arms of cave dwellers.

How is it, then, that the equine race, represented in America by kinds of fossils considerably more numerous than in Europe, came for a time to vanish from this country to reappear thousands of centuries later with the Spanish conquest? For but a century after Cortez there were already in existence herds of wild horses in the regions of the mata and the prairies of the far west.

By some this temporary extinction of the American horse has been attributed to the increasing cold and the encroachments of the glacial hamphero. It is certain that the elephant and camel disappeared at the same time. Another explanation is that the horses succumbed to a malarial such is the "rinderpest" in South Africa. Again, what brought about this exodus may possibly have been a species of the present-day Columbian vampire bat, which sucks the life blood of its victims, and in the districts it infests prevents the horse being used as a beast of burden.

INJURED IN WRECK.

Conductor Thrown 25 Feet Embankment.

George Hahn, C. & N. W. conductor, Arbor Ave., West Chicago, Ill., says: "I was thrown from a car down a 25-foot embankment and my kidneys were badly bruised. Kidney trouble developed and for a whole year, I was unable to work. I suffered agonizing pains in my back and the kidney secretions were in terrible condition. My vitality gradually diminished and the doctor's treatment failed to help. When in despair I began with Don's Kidney Pills and soon improved. Continued use cured me and at present my health is excellent."

NOT THE TIME FOR THAT

Scotsmen Objected to Mixture of Good Whisky and Religious Conversation.

Owen Seaman, editor of Punch, was the principal guest at a dinner of the London Authors' club recently, which was followed by a discussion on "Humor." Mr. Seaman began with a story deprecating the spoiling of good dinner by any discussion at all.

There were three characters in the story—a bluebottle and two Scotsmen. The story at once struck a note of probability by showing the Scotsmen drinking whisky. The bluebottle buzzed on the pane; otherwise silence reigned.

This was broken by one of the Scotsmen trying to locate the bluebottle with zoological exactitude. Said the Scotsman:

"Sandy, I'm thinking if you fly is a bird or a beastle."

The other replied: "Man, don't spoil good whisky with religious conversation."

Aerial Postcards.

Have you seen the "aerial postcards?" They are the latest novelty in the line, and these who collect postcards are delighted at the idea that before long they will be able to add to their albums a "carte aerienne," dropped from the clouds by one of their friends passing in an aeroplane. The new card bears a printed request that the person finding it on the ground will be so good as to take it to the nearest post office, whence it will be forwarded to its destination. A space is reserved for the mention of the altitude at which the message left the sender's hands, and the situation, approximately, of the aeroplane at the time of sending. A photograph of the monoplane or biplane figures on the other side.

It is said that a request has been made to the minister of posts and telegraphs that a special stamp should be created for these aerial messages, but so far I have not heard that M. Miller and has undertaken to do so.—Paris correspondent London Globe.

English in London.

Senator Depew, on the deck of the Lusitania, talked about "English as she is spoken in London."

"It is very difficult to understand that London English," he said. "I know a man who had lodgings all July in Bloomsbury, near the British museum."

"On his return from the museum one afternoon, my friend said to his landlady:

"Can I have a cup of tea, if you please?"

"Certainly, sir; at once," the landlady replied. "The kettle 'as been h'llin' for 'ours."

"But—er—I prefer freshly boiled water, if you don't mind," stammered my friend.

"The landlady reddened with anger. "Look 'ere," she said, "if I had meant wot you mean I'd 'ave said 'bours."

PRESSED HARD. Coffee's Weight on Old Age.

When prominent men realize the injurious effects of coffee and the change in health that Postum can bring, they are glad to lend their testimony for the benefit of others.

A superintendent of public schools in a Southern state says: "My mother, since her early childhood, has been troubled with her heart for a number of years and complained of that 'weak all over' feeling and sick stomach."

"Some time ago I was making an official visit to a distant part of the country and took dinner with one of the merchants of the place. I noticed a somewhat peculiar flavor of the coffee, and asked him concerning it. He replied that it was Postum. I was so pleased with it that, after the meal was over, I bought a package to carry home with me, and had wife prepare some for the next meal; the whole family liked it so well that we discontinued coffee and used Postum entirely."

"I had really been at times very anxious concerning my mother's condition, but we noticed that after using Postum for a short time, she felt so much better than she did prior to its use, and had little trouble with her heart and no sick stomach; that the headaches were not so frequent, and her general condition much improved. This continued until she was as well and hearty as the rest of us."

"I know Postum has benefited myself and the other members of the family, but in a more marked degree in the case of my mother, as she was a victim of long standing."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

29 PERISH IN LAKE

CAR FERRY PERE MARQUETTE
SINKS TO BOTTOM OFF
LUDINGTON.

THIRTY-THREE ARE SAVED

Believed That 28 Freight Cars Became Loose and That Water Rolled Into Vessel's Stern During Heavy Sea.

Milwaukee.—Twenty-nine lives were lost in Lake Michigan when the Pere Marquette's car ferry, No. 13, sank
from unknown cause twenty miles off Sheboygan, Wis., Friday.

It is declared one of the worst marine disasters in the history of Lake Michigan navigation. The boat was valued at $400,000, and the cargo,
which included thirty-two loaded cars,
estimated to be worth $150,000.

At the sacrifice of two of her own sailors, and after terrible hours of struggle the steel car ferry Pere Marquette No. 17, which went to the assistance of No. 13, reached this port
with three dead, and twenty-nine survivors of the crew of her sister ship.

Twelve of the rescued were in one of the ship's boats, the remainder were clinging to the wreckage, or floating about buffeted by the debris.

The catastrophe occurred approximately thirty miles off from Port Washington, No. 17, bound from Milwaukee for Ludington, reached the wreck just as the No. 13 sank out of sight. Several miles away a lone boat was floundering in the surge and swell of the waves, and on all sides
were the shrieks and screams of the poor wretches soaked through and through with the almost ice-cold water,
and gripped by the strong winds.
Only a few had time to dress.

The Pere Marquette No. 20, out
from Ludington bound for Milwaukee and manned by a crew most of whom came from the same city as those on the sunken vessel, was the third craft
to reach there. Just prior to its arrival the fishing tug Teeler, out from

BROWNE FOUND NOT GUILTY

ILLINOIS LEGISLATOR FREED OF BRIBERY CHARGE.

Jury Out Over 21 Hours and Verdict
Is Greeted With Cheers—Emotion
Overcame Defendant.

Chicago.—The jury in the second trial of Leo O'Neill Browne, leader of the minority in the Illinois legislature,
charged with bribing Representative
Charles A. White to vote for Senator Lorimer, returned a verdict of not guilty in the criminal court Friday.
In the first trial of Browne the jury disagreed.

The speedy verdict was a surprise to the many who had watched the progress of the second trial and had feared that a repetition of the tedious deliberations of the first jury would close the case. The verdict was returned before Judge Kersten after the jury had deliberated a little over twenty-one hours.

Altogether eight ballots were taken.
The first poll showed them 8 to 4
for acquittal and several ballots were taken thereafter with the same result. Then there was a slight change to 9 to 3. Later the vote was 11 to 1,
and on the eighth poll the full 12-to-0
vote was recorded.

As the words "not guilty" fell from
the clerk's lips a cheer went up.
Scenes of confusion followed. It was with difficulty that the bailiffs restrained the crowd. It was then that Browne jumped from his chair, seized Attorney Erbstein around the neck
and they embraced each other.

A moment later Browne was torn from his counsel by his friends. They pushed him around the room in almost a frenzy to offer their congratulations. Browne then tried to reach the jury box to thank the jurors.

"I thank—" he began, but he did not finish, his emotions overcoming
him. Tears ran down his face.

The second Browne trial started before Judge Kersten August 1. It was fought stubbornly by both sides
every moment and cost the county and the interests back of the defendant many thousands of dollars.

Browne was indicted by a special

FALLING ROCKS KILL

TEN WORKMEN ARE DEAD, NINE
INJURED IN ERIE RAILROAD
TUNNELS.

SOMEONE MADE A BLUNDER

Twenty-Eight Laborers Are Caught in Tubes Underneath Hundreds of Tons of Brick and Mortar—Nine Escape Uninjured.

Jersey City, N. J.—By the fall of hundreds of tons of Palisade rock
through the broken roof of the old Erie railroad tunnels ten workmen were crushed to death Sunday and nine others were seriously injured,
five of them probably fatally.

The dead and injured formed part of a gang of twenty-eight hard rock
men who were removing the mountain of stone above the tunnels to transform them into open "cuts," as
was recently completed, on other tracks adjacent. Somebody either blundered in blasting which weakened
the brick roof of the tubes, or there was an unsuspected fault in the rock.

The Erie tunnels were driven through the solid rock of the Palisades
about fifty-three years ago and rounded with five courses of heavy brick, mortared. Two months ago, after three years' hard work, the Millard Construction company completed the opening of the passenger tunnels
now known as the Bergen cut. The Erie company itself concluded to open the freight tracks on its own account and placed its own engineers and workmen in charge.

West of the Hudson boulevard viaduct
there was a mass of rock to cut away about 110 feet deep down to the brick walls of the tunnels and about 125 feet long. Working in three shifts of eight hours each, the gangs had cut down to the tunnels for a distance of more than 60 feet and they had removed all the upper work to within 30 feet of the brick below.

Twenty-eight men were employed in cleaning up the debris left by the drilling and blasting when there came first a crashing report, then a swaying and tossing of a solid rock, a thunderous report like a park of artillery and after that there was a churning and tossing of men as first
the center sank and pieces by pieces great chunks of rock, some weighing tons, fell from the sides, grinding and crushing as they struck.

Gov. Patterson Quits Race.
Nashville, Tenn.—Explaining his action in a scorching statement, Gov.
Malcolm R. Patterson Saturday withdrew his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for governor of Tennessee, furnishing a sensational climax
to a long and bitter preliminary campaign. The governor has already served two terms in office and had announced his candidacy for a third term in compliance with the wishes of the state committee, which declared him the Democratic nominee
without opposition.

ILLINOIS COAL STRIKE ENDS

AGREEMENT REACHED BETWEEN MINERS AND OPERATORS.

Practically Every Demand of Men Is Granted—40,000 Workmen to Resume Work.

Chicago.—Forty-four thousand Illinois coal miners will resume work at once after an illness of more than five months as a result of an agreement reached between the officials of the mine workers and the Illinois Coal Operators' association.

Practically every demand of the men has been granted. A contract extending up to April 1, 1912, was signed.
The average increase to the miners
in wages will amount to eight cents
per ton, or an aggregate of $1,000,000 annually. The installation of safety appliances and general betterments
which the operators agree to give the men will increase the cost of putting coal on the market nearly 12 cents
per ton.

Of the 72,000 miners who quit work
April 1, more than 28,000 already have signed up and assume work. The balance will begin active work so soon as the mines can be pumped out and put into condition for operation. It is thought that by the middle of next week every mine in the state will be in full operation. Several are in condition to start mining at once.

It is estimated that the strike has caused a shortage of at least 20,000, 000 tons, a loss in wages amounting to $15,000,000, and a net loss to the operators of nearly $10,000,000.

was the answer made here Saturday
by United States Senator William Lorimer to the action of the club

president, John R. Batten, in withdrawing his invitation to the Roosevelt banquet.

The invitation was withdrawn at the demand of Colonel Roosevelt, who refused absolutely to attend a banquet at which Senator Lorimer was also a guest.

While Senator Lorimer urged that his resignation be accepted immediately, it is said that the senator's
friends on the club board of governors probably will refuse to vote the acceptance.

FERNALD DEFEATED

COL. FREDERICK W. PLAISTED,
DEMOCRAT, IS ELECTED GOV.
ENOR OF MAINE.

MAJORITY MAY REACH 5,000

Republicans Probably Lose Four Congressmen and State Legislature—
Democrats Make Clean Sweep in Arizona.

Augusta, Me.—The Democrats of Maine are wild with delight for they
on Monday elected their candidate for governor, Col. Frederick W. Plaisted, mayor of this city, and perhaps four congressmen and quite likely also a majority of the legislature.

Plaisted's majority over his Republican opponent, the present governor, Bert M. Fernald, will probably reach 5,000, though it will be several days before the vote of many remote rural communities is received. The Fourth Congressional district, which includes numerous polling places of this sort,
is thought to have gone Republican.

Asler C. Hinds, the parliamentarian of congress, is defeated in the Portland district, Swazey in the Second and Burleigh in the Third.

That state issues, notably the drastic enforcement of the prohibitory law,
by the party in power, have been chiefly responsible for the election of Plaisted is freely admitted on both sides and this result is not much of a surprise to close observers, but that the political complexion of Maine representation in congress should be changed is regarded as the verdict of the voters on the questions which are uppermost in the insurgent west.

Should the legislature prove to be Democratic it is altogether likely that the question of maintaining the prohibitory law will be submitted to the people and of course a Democrat will succeed Eugene Hale in the United States senate.

Phoenix, Ariz.—Conservative celebrities show that the Democrats have elected a majority of delegates to the Constitutional convention and that the initiative and referendum has carried overwhelmingly.

TEN BEEF PACKERS INDICTED

Five Presidents of Packing Companies
Charged With Having Violated
the Sherman Anti-Trust Law.

Chicago, Sept. 13.—Ten men, five of them presidents of the most extensive packing companies in the world and all of them directors of the National Packing company, which has been the special object of recent governmental investigation, were indicted by the federal grand jury on a charge of having violated the Sherman anti-trust
act.

Three indictments, the first one containing five counts and the others one each, were returned before Judge Kenesaw M. Landis, who empaneled
the grand jury two months ago.

The men indicted are:
J. Ogden Armour, president of Armour & Co.

Louis F. Swift, president of Swift
& Co.

Edward A. Tilden, president of the National Packing company and of the firm of Libby, McNeill & Libby.

Francis A. Fowler, head of Fowler Bros.

Edward F. Swift, vice-president of Swift & Co.

Charles A. Swift, director of Swift
& Co.

Arthur Meeker, general manager
for Armour & Co.

Thomas J. Conners, superintendent of Armour & Co.

Louis H. Heyman, manager of Morris & Co.

The maximum penalty for each violation of the Sherman act is a fine of $5,000 or imprisonment for one year,
or both.

The indictments charge that all of the defendants have engaged in a combination in restraint of interstate trade in fresh meats, that they have engaged in a conspiracy in restraint of trade and that they have monopolized
the trade in fresh meats by unlawful means.

The indictments cover 125 pages of typewritten matter. They go into every angle of the packing industry
in this country and contain the allegation that 85 per cent. of the fresh meat consumed in this eastern, western and middle southern states comes directly from the companies controlled by the defendants. The proportion of each concern in this trade is given as follows: Swift group of houses, 47 per cent.; Armour group, 40 per cent.;
Morris group, 13 per cent.

No bench warrants were asked and immediately after the grand jury had handed in the indictments it adjourned for the day. It is expected that the indicted men will appear in court and give bond, but if not, warrants for their arrest will be given to the United States marshal. The amount of their bond has not been fixed, but it will probably be about $10,000.

TINY BABY'S PITIFUL CASE

"Our baby when two months old
was suffering with terrible eczema
from head to foot, all over her body.
The baby looked just like a skinned rabbit. We were unable to put clothes on her. At first it seemed to be a few mattered pimples. They would break
the skin and peel off leaving the underneath skin red as though it were scalded. Then a few more pimples would appear and spread all over the body, leaving the baby all raw without skin from head to foot. On top of her head there appeared a heavy scab a quarter of an inch thick. It was awful to see so small a baby look as she did. Imagine! The doctor was afraid to put his hands to the child. We tried several doctors' remedies but all failed.

"Then we decided to try Cuticura.
By using the Cuticura Ointment we softened the scab and it came off. Under this, where the real matter was,
by washing with the Cuticura Soap
and applying the Cuticura Ointment,
a new skin soon appeared. We also gave baby four drops of the Cuticura Resolvent three times daily. After three days you could see the baby
gaining a little skin which would peel off and heal underneath. Now the baby is four months old. She is a fine picture of a fat little baby and all is well. We only used one cake of Cuticura Soap, two boxes of Cuticura Ointment and one bottle of Cuticura Re-solvent. If people would know what Cuticura is there would be few suffering with eczema. Mrs. Joseph Kosmann, 7 St. John's Place, Ridgewood Heights, N. Y., Apr. 30 and May 4, '09."

Speaking of Fires.

Roy Bone, a brother of United States District Attorney Harry Bone,
several years ago was a reporter on the Wichita Beacon. In going to a fire one of the members of the fire de-

cart and killed. Bone wrote a heap,
with this as the first deck: "Gone to His Last Fire."

The piece got into the paper and Bone was promptly "fired."—Kansas

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is a real and certain cure for eczema, and that it is called CUTICURA. It is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Eczema,
being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Cuticura is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and sealing nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer
One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

In marine circles it is believed that the string of twenty-eight cars be-

about and that the water rolled into
the vessel's stern, which is wide open.
This seems plausible in view of the fact that the sea was rolling from the north, the most dangerous on Lake Michigan, while the steamer was heading southwest by south.

COL. I. L. ELLWOOD IS DEAD

Richest Man in Illinois Succumbs to Illness of Paralytic Nature of
Two Months' Duration.

Chicago.—Coy. Isaac L. Ellwood,
one of the most prominent figures in the life of Illinois since the early 70s and the richest man in Illinois, died Sunday night at his residence in De Kalb, Ill., after an illness
of more than two months.

Since the death of his wife nine weeks ago Colonel Ellwood had been sinking rapidly and physicians at no time have even hoped for his recovery. The illness from which he was suffering was of a paralytic nature
and attacked him a few days after the funeral of Mrs. Ellwood.

Colonel Ellwood was a pioneer
manufacturer of barbed wire fencing,
and to the expansion of that industry
with the subdivision of the great ranches of the west into farms, he owes his fortune. Aside from his wealth and his industrial activity, Colonel Ellwood became one of the best known men in the state through his political and financial affiliations.

of fire fighters sent on two special Northern Pacific trains from Elma and Houlihan Thursday.

STATE PRIMARIES' RESULTS

La Follette in Wisconsin and Charles E. Townsend in Michigan Win in Senatorial Fight.

Milwaukee, Wis.—United States
Senator Robert M. La Follette carried Wisconsin at the recent primary election by an overwhelming majority over Samuel A. Cook of Neenah. In Milwaukee county the senator's plurality
easily will reach beyond 8,000 and estimates are given of his nomination over his opponent by a vote of 5 to 1, a larger majority than
was anticipated.

There is no doubt that La Follette
will have control of the candidates'
platform convention at Madison and that he will have the next legislature
back of him. So big was his vote that it carried with it a large majority of the legislative nominees. The La Follette state ticket, headed by Francis E. McGovern, also is nominated by a safe majority.

Detroit, Mich.—Congressman
Charles E. Townsend is conceded by supporters of Senator Burrows to have swept the state in the fight for the Republican endorsement for United States senator at the primaries. Townsend's plurality is admitted to be more than 17,000. Chase B. Osborn of Sault Ste. Marie has a lead nearly as good for the Republican nomination for governor. Returns from two-thirds of the precincts in the state
give these figures:

For senator—Townsend, 48,622;
Burrows, 31,296.
For governor—Osborn, 38,993.
For lieutenant-governor—Kolley,
24,014; Amos S. Musseiman, 24,911.

Nomination Costs $17,550.10.

Atlanta, Ga.—For the Democratic nomination for governor of Georgia, Hoke Smith, successful candidate in the recent primary election, paid $17,
count filed by him Saturday with the controller of the state.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 15, 1910

Maybe Waukegan woke up with the big head this morning.

Now for November: to see that we Republicans make good.

Waukegan is still on the map but they have learned a few things over there.

Senator Lorimer can't kick on the free advertising that Teddy provided for him.

What figure the vote in Vermont is to cut out here in the bounding west we fail to see.

With President Taft back in Washington Beverly retires into innocuous desuetude.

Wayman has had his fling. Now the eyes of all the goo goes are on Burke at Springfield.

The next session of the legislature is to have some strange faces but they are not all going to be strange, that's a cinch.

Gov. Deneen didn't get up in this county to make a speech after all. Whatever might have been his loss is our gain.

We wonder if Foss was honest when he said he intended to go back on Uncle Joe, the one man who made him what little he is.

That conservation congress at St. Paul did a few stunts too. It couldn't help it as long as Taft and Roosevelt were both there.

Now that the primaries are over it is up to the Republicans to see the selections of their party are elected in November. The democrats are doing a lot of hollering.

Politics are like Heaven. Your worst enemy may win out and have a seat right beside you but that doesn't mean that he isn't just as good as you are and deserves the glory, halo and all.

Senator Dick of Ohio, is having all kinds of troubles. He is a standpatter who wants to look like an insurgent. He ought to communicate with Foss. The last named gentleman knows a few things about that kind of a stunt.

Senator Lorimer may not now be a member of the Hamilton club but you will still notice that he is a United States Senator with the chances of being on the job much longer than Deneen is governor of the great state of Illinois.

How do the results at the primaries strike you? Perhaps some of you wish you had gone to vote and others wish they hadn't wasted their time by being there. Anyway its the voice of the great American people and it looks good to us.

Well it's all over but the shouting and while only two of the candidates that the News picked as winners at the final count won, it is a noticeable fact that every one that we supported with the exception of one, that for the office of county treasurer, won out in Antioch township by a strong majority.

The Chicago trust newspapers are still trying to explain how it was that Lee O'Neil Browne is not on his way to the penitentiary. Of course they say all the "twelve good men and true" were Lorimer men but if that is the case all Chicago must be for Lorimer. He seems anyway to be a prophet in his own country.

Taft's Idea

President Taft's proposition to reform the tariff piecemeal looks to the average business man or farmer like the most practical idea yet advanced to bring about desirable results without demoralizing general commercial conditions again.

A wholesale ripping up of the tariff schedules by Congress again this winter would mean another year's set back for business.

But if each item is taken separately and adjudicated upon with a reasonable intermission between the consideration of each specific one there will be no cataclysm.

For this kind of procedure would require years to go over the various schedules in question and with only a few products affected at one session of Congress there could be no profound impression on the general industry of this country.

This idea gives the manufacturing interests to be affected time to rearrange for the new conditions without the strain on general business were they all compelled at once to reorganize on a new basis.

We don't want any more tariff reform hard times if we can help it and our worthy president seems to have found the way to do the reforming without putting us all on the dump heap again.

Already Once.

The architects of the country are slowly awakening to the important position of the plumber and steam-fitter in the general scheme of building. They yet need, however, much education.—Domestic Engineering.

A Different Audience.

"That author says he will be appreciated by posterity." "That's good. If he is writing for posterity, he has no excuse for being offended at friends who don't read his books."

Always Worth Waiting For.

If success seems abominably slow in being attained, it is worth while remembering that the quickest and surest way to render it absolutely impossible to give up trying for it, or to try for it like some people act when they find themselves in deep water—throw their arms and feet all about in desperation.

Do You Get Up

With a Lame Back?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everyone knows of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, because of its remarkable health restoring properties. Swamp-Root fails almost every wish in overcoming rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night.

Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble, it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been thoroughly tested in private practice, and has proved so successful that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper, who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root, and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble.

When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Home of Swamp-Root, Binghamton, N. Y. The regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles are sold by all druggists. Don't make any mistake but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

THIS IS IT!

It Saved His Leg.
"All thought I'd lose my leg," writes J. A. Swensen, of Watertown, Wis. "Ten years of eczema that 15 doctors could not cure, had at last laid me up. Then Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured it sound and well." Infallible for skin eruptions, eczema, salt rheum, boils, fever sores, burns, scalds, cuts and piles. 25c at J. H. Swan's.

As to Public Nuisances.
There would be no public nuisances if public nuisances never increased the profits of influential people.

A Man of Iron Nerve.
Indomitable will and tremendous energy are never found where stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels are out of order. If you want these qualities and the success they bring, use Dr. King's New Life Pills, the matchless regulators, for keen brain and strong body. 25c at J. H. Swans.

Total.....$50.15

The marriage license of Marsen Taylor of Lake Bluff and Miss Cora Ide of Racine, Wis., appeared in the Waukegan papers of last Friday. When asked in regard to the matter Marsen replied that there was "nothing to it" and that it was only a joke, but information from Waukegan reaches us to the effect that a license was issued and that the groom was denying the report only to mislead his friends. Mr. Taylor is a former Antioch boy, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Taylor of this place. His many friends extend congratulations.

A block of coal has been sent to the Indiana state geologist's office for the solving of a mystery. Lee South found it in Vandalla mine No. 5. It was two feet long, a foot wide and ten inches thick, and had characters embossed upon it. Each character is an inch long and as perfect as if chiseled. The block has three rows of them running the entire length. All are well defined and uniform, but the legend, whatever it may be, is not in the English language. What makes the block of coal more mysterious is a perfect Odd Fellow emblem of three links below the characters. On close examination one may see that it was not formed by nature. There are no depressions in the coal, but all are embossed upon it almost one inch high. The coal was more than 100 feet below the surface of the earth and no one knows how long it had been there.

Raney Walbaum was in Antioch Thursday.

John Van Patten and wife of Chetek, Wis., are visiting relatives and friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman have moved into the Sarah Ingalls house on Main street.

Among the riders at the Milwaukee fair this week was Selma Walbaum formerly of this place.

Pearl Lux returned home from Milwaukee where she has been for the past year on Thursday of this week.

Misses Minnie, Ada, and Pearl Lux are spending the latter part of this week with relatives at Wadsworth.

Mrs. DeWitt Stanton of Donaphin, Mo., arrived here Wednesday afternoon, being called here by the illness of her father, Warren Williams.

Lew Felter and Jim McDougall are taking an extended trip in northern Wisconsin, where they went for the purpose of looking over some land which they purchased there some time ago.

Mrs. G. M. Davies of Maywood, Ill., and Mrs. M. S. Miller of Almena, Kan. were the guests of the former's son, Ray Davies and family at this place Wednesday and Thursday of this week.

Homer Hendee of Antioch is perhaps entitled to the record honor of having attended each and every Lake County fair held since the organization of the fair association. He was present this year for the fifty-seventh time, each annual exhibition during all these years having found him among the visitors. Mr. Hendee will leave in a few days for California where he expects to spend the winter but says that he will certainly be back in time to attend the fifty-eighth annual fair.

VERTICAL SUN-DIAL AND MODEL OF A TEMPLE PYLON

A NEW LINK IN HISTORY

RUSSELL WOODARD

AN ETHIOPIAN KING FROM MEROE

SINCE the excavation in Crete, which changed the Minoan myths into historical fact and revealed the existence of a great island empire that existed in the Aegean long before Greek civilization began, there have been few discoveries of greater interest and importance than those which have recently been made by Professor Garstang at Meroe, in the Sudan.

Professor Sayce in 1909 located the site of the city of Meroe on the east bank of the Nile, between the Fifth and Sixth Cataracts, and the excavations, carried on by Professor Garstang at the end of 1909 enabled the details of the Ethiopian capital to become known. The Temple of Anion, where the Ethiopian Kings were crowned, was also discovered. Even more interesting is the excavation of the beautiful Sun Temple, which was discovered at the edge of the khor, or meadow, thus confirming the account of Herodotus, who tells us that Cambyzes sent to the Ethiopian King to inquire about "the Table of the Sun" in a meadow "in the suburbs of the capital, where cooked meats were set each night." There is no doubt that this building is referred to in the Homeric legend that Zeus and the other gods feasted every year for twelve days among the blameless Ethiopians. Many other buildings were also explored, and the Temples of the Lion and the Komisa were discovered. It may be noted that the lion emblem was of frequent occurrence, and may probably have been the totem of the district. Many beautiful objects were dug up by the expedition, including forty inscriptions in the hieroglyphics of Meroe, two royal statues, and a great many vases of a new kind of pottery, objects of wood and glass, tiles and pottery. Especially interesting was the pottery which is almost as thin as biscuit china, and gives evidence of Roman influence. Professor Sayce found Greek inscriptions showing how the city was destroyed at the end of the fourth century A. D., by a King of Arum, since which event the city was unoccupied.

THE SUN TEMPLE, WHICH HERODOTUS DESCRIBES AS "THE TABLE OF THE SUN."

STATUE OF AN ETHIOPIAN QUEEN

Ethiopia was the name given by the Greeks to a country south of Egypt variously conceived as including only Nubia (Aethiopia Aegypti), or Nubia, Sennar, Kordofan and Abyssinia, or a region extending indefinitely east and west from the Upper Nile, but applied after the fall of Meroe more particularly to Abyssinia. The name is said to have had its origin from the fact that it was alluded to by the Greeks as a country of sunburned faces.

Historically there were three distinct kingdoms known as Ethiopia, those of Napata, Meroe and Askum. There is no definite evidence that either of these included at any time all the territory between the southern border of Egypt and Bab el Mandeb.

Already in the time of the old empire the Egyptians had relations with their southern neighbors. From the forests of Nubia they obtained a large proportion of their timber, and the city of Abu (Elephantine) derived its name from the ivory which found its way to this place from the interior of Africa. King Ucas (c. 3290-3260 B. C.) employed warriors belonging to six Nubian tribes in his war upon the Bedouins. The early pictorial representations of Nubian archers do not suggest that they were negroes. A regular conquest of the country south of Syene apparently was not undertaken until the twelfth dynasty (c. 2522-2323). The most powerful Nubian people at this time was the Khash or Kosh, the Hebrew Kush. It is probable that the stock was originally Hamitic, though in course of time it absorbed various Negrilic tribes. Usertesen III (c. 2490-2372) established his frontier north of the second cataract and built for its protection two forts at Semneh and Kummeh on opposite sides of the river. Whether the Hyksos kings ever held possession of this territory is doubtful. At any rate it had to be reorganized by Ahmose (1575-1553), the founder of the eighteenth dynasty and his successors. Napata probably had been the capital of the independent kingdom, since it was made the residence of the viceroy, entitled prince of Kosh, who governed the new Egyptian province. In the time of Ramesses II there was an unsuccessful rebellion. Pianchi I, who seems to have reigned in Napata since 777, availed himself of the weakness of Egypt at the end of the reign of Usarsken III to make an invasion of Egypt. He defeated twenty petty rulers and forced a treaty. Shabaka, a grandson of Pianchi, united all Egypt with Ethiopia under one crown. Napata was destroyed by Cambyzes in 524.

A new kingdom gradually arose in the south after the fall of Napata, with Meroe as its capital. The Kings, Arura, Harlot, Nastasen, who reigned in the fifth and fourth centuries, conquered considerable territory south of Meroe in Sennar and Kordofan, and possibly in Abyssinia. While the suzerainty of the Ptolemies seems to have been recognized for religious reasons, King Ergamenes, by putting to death the priests who had demanded that he should abdicate in the time of Ptolemy IV Philopater (221-204), paved the way for independence. Ptolemy V. Epiphanes (204-181) was able to resist his attack upon Egypt, but not able to prevent his asserting of sovereignty in Ethiopia. Queen Candace seems to have extended her power in the north, and twenty-five provinces are said to have been tributary to her. But her invasion of Egypt was successfully resisted by Calpurnius Petronius in B. C. 24. Napata, that had been rebuilt, was destroyed by the Romans. Another Queen Candace is mentioned in Acts viii. But gradually Meroe itself fell into ruins. To guard against invasion by the Blenmyans, a people akin to the Bugatae, the modern Beja, Diocletian moved the Nubian, negro tribes of the same stock as the population of Kordofan, from the oasis of Khargeh into the Nile valley.

The mountain region of Abyssinia was probably inhabited in very early times by Semites as well as Hamites. Whether the original home of the former was in Africa or in Arabia the overflow population would naturally set in the direction of this Alpine country. As the native name shows, the Semitic Ethiopians were still in the nomadic state when they entered this territory, priding themselves on being wanderers, roaming freely wherever they liked. There were evidently successive waves of immigration. If the Egyptian Hbat is of Semitic origin, as can scarcely be doubted, they were apparently kinsmen of the Yemenites in Eretia and on the Somali coast c. 1500 B. C. Sohaean inscriptions found in Yeha, the ancient Awa, may be as old as the seventh century B. C.

As long as the Ptolemies dominated the Erythraean coast from Adulis, Berenice and Arsinoe, a strong Abyssinian kingdom could not well develop. But in the reign of Augustus, when the Romans suffered serious reverses in Arabia, and were occupied in Africa with Queen Candace, while the Arsacid conquests in eastern Arabia forced the Yemenite States to seek compensation for their losses elsewhere, the Semitic element in Ethiopia seems to have been reinforced, and the kingdom of Askum founded. The "Periplus maris Erythraei," probably written by Basileus between A. D. 50 and 67, refers to a king of Askum by the name of Zoscales, who controlled the coast from Massawa to Bab el Mandeb, and was a friend of Greek culture. It is possible that some of the Greek coins with Greek legends that have been preserved should be assigned to the second and third centuries A. D.

On a marble throne in Adulis, Cosmos Indicopleustes found and copied in the sixth century an inscription commemorating the power of a great king whose name is not given. He is supposed by some scholars to be the founder of the Askumite kingdom, but it is more probable that he reigned at the end of the third century A. D. King Alzama is known to have reigned in the year A. D. 356. In his time Frumentius preached Christianity in the country. The political relations that had long existed between Askum and Rome were such as to favor his mission. In 378 Askum was reduced to its African territory. In A. D. 525 Eleasban, king of Askum, with the aid of the Sabaeans and Hadramautian rulers, made an end to the Himyarite kingdom of Dhu Nuwas, and Ethiopia again controlled Arabian territory. Before the end of the century, however, the Askumites were driven back to Africa, and never again extended their conquests to Arabia. According to a letter addressed to a king of Nubia in the time of the Patriarch Philothous of Alexandria (980-1002), preserved in the fourteenth century "Life of the Patriarch" and in the "Ethiopic Synaxar," a woman who reigned over the Beni el Hamuna had recently invaded the country, burned the churches and monasteries, and driven him from place to place. Marianus Victor speaks of this woman as the founder of the Zagwe dynasty, and as having married a ruler of the province of Bugna, a name afterwards corrupted into Beni el Zagwe. Eleven kings of the so-called Zagwe dynasty reigned until 1270.

The earliest monuments of Semitic speech in Ethiopia are the inscriptions found at Yeha. These are written in the consonantal Sabean script and indicate that the writers used the lemmi Oes, the language of Semitic Ethiopia, as early as the seventh century B. C. Ge'ez is today represented by two dialects, Tigre and Tigrina or Tigrina. The latter is spoken in Tigre, and the former is spoken in the districts north and northwest of Tigre, and shows great similarity to the old Ge'ez.

Red Cross Christmas Seals.

Arrangements for the sale of Red Cross Christmas Seals for 1910 have been announced by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis and the American Red Cross. "A Million for Tuberculosis" will be the slogan of the 1910 campaign. Two features of the sale this year are unique and will bring considerable capital to the tuberculosis fighters: The American National Red Cross is to issue the stamps as in former years, but this organization will work in close co-operation with the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, which body will share in the proceeds of the sales. The charge to local associations for the use of the national stamps has been reduced also from 20 per cent to 12½ per cent, which will mean at least $50,000 more for tuberculosis work in all parts of the United States. The stamps are to be designated as "Red Cross Seals" this year and are to be placed on the back of letters instead of on the front.

Ways of Berlin Women

"I believe that the typical German hausfrau is a myth," said a New York woman who returned the other day from a year's residence in Germany. "I don't see how the average German woman finds any time to be a hausfrau. I sometimes wondered when the German woman found time to do anything at home."

"I spent eight months in Berlin with my daughter, who was studying music. From eleven to twelve in the morning the cafes were packed with German women, who go out to take their second breakfast in the public restaurants, a thing unknown in America."

"They take along their sewing or embroidery and sit an hour or two over their cup of coffee or glass of beer. At the concerts, too, they take their work and spend hours day after day listening to the music. You can spend an afternoon listening to beautiful music, a magnificent orchestra with fine vocal artists, for 16 cents. That is an illustration of some of the things that help to exile Americans."

"At three in the afternoon again you will see the cafe crowded with German women taking their afternoon tea. I think American women are more domestic than German, because I never heard of American women who left their homes in the evening to pass the time at the club. A German friend took me one evening to the German women's club. The club has a magnificent suite of apartments, including auditorium, reading room, parlor, cafe and smoking room."

"When she took me into the last apartment it almost froze me for a minute. It was blue with smoke. I had never before seen a room filled with elegantly gowned, cultivated women all smoking. These were the wealthy society women of Berlin, filled some of them."

"They were cosmopolitan in their dress and manners and did not present any striking points of difference from the American women except in the smoking. It made the occurrence of last summer, when our immigration officials detained a second class passenger, a woman art dealer, for inquiry into her sanity because she smoked cigarettes, appear very funny in retrospect."

"The German women's clubs, like those of the Englishwomen, are based on the same principle as men's clubs; these are places for social enjoyment and for the convenience of members in taking meals, entertaining friends and so on. They do not take up work in study, philanthropy, reform and so on, like the women's clubs in America."

USE MACHINES FOR JUDGING

Method Recently Devised Would Seem to Put End to All Possible Controversy.

For registering the results of athletic contests, the human eye and voice sometime seem painfully inadequate. Close contests of this kind are now judged in some parts of the world by judging machines.

One such device, the invention of an Austrian, is designed to be placed at the finish line in a running race, and consists of a light metal frame partitioned into two or more divisions, each about four feet wide. On top of the frame stands a small cabinet containing numbered divisions corresponding to the numbers of the tracks.

The instant the first man passes through his division a shutter falls, disclosing his track number. The other numbers are immediately locked, except when the machine is set for final heats. In this case a small cylinder is attached to the machine, and a hammerhead strikes a mark on the revolving cylinder as the men finish. Thus the exact positions of all competitors can be told to a nicety.

The same inventor has originated an automatic judging machine for bicycle races. It consists of fine light metal strips placed in a small trough about two inches wide, which is sunk across the track at the finish.

During the last lap these strips, which are coated with enamel, are placed in position by means of a lever, and the first wheel to cross receives five marks. In crossing, however, it displaces one of the strips, and the next wheel, therefore, receives only four marks, and so on.—The Sunday Magazine.

MADE A "HIT" OF ACCIDENT

Sicilian Actor Certainly Gifted With True Dramatic Instinct, as This Incident Shows.

Giovanni Grasso, a Sicilian actor of unusual dramatic energy, is the hero of a peculiar story, says the Florence correspondent of the London Express. He was playing one of his fiercest parts, where he had to stab his enemy with a dagger. Suddenly, in the heat of his passion, Grasso let the weapon slip out of his hand. It alighted in the pit on a man's head, cutting it slightly.

An indignant member of the audience flung the knife back to the stage, where it was dexterously caught by Grasso. Raising it aloft in his hand, and as if it were accused, Grasso smashed it in two, and then stamped upon it.

Then, with a swift bound, Grasso was in the pit beside the injured man. The next minute he had climbed back to the boards, with the victim in his arms.

After settling him in a chair, Grasso threw himself on his knees and began a long entreaty for forgiveness. This was readily granted by the much embarrassed playgoer, who on his side begged to be allowed to return to his seat.

But this was not to be until Grasso, weeping copiously, had bestowed no fewer than 50 resounding kisses on the man's blushing cheeks.

The action was greeted with loud cheers, and after Grasso had gracefully bowed his thanks, the play was resumed and successfully concluded.
